Profile

I'm Opeyemi Gabriel-Famosipe. I'm a developer who does little designs. I've worked in-house and remotely on projects for different brands, agencies, and startups. I care deeply about creating world-class, useful and beautiful products that help people and make a difference.

I like to be involved at different stages of a digital project, from the seed of the idea, through to building, development and even the front-end and WordPress build. As a freelancer, this means I can jump in at any stage of a project, or take on the whole project, from start to end.

Am skilled in Website development, Mobile development, Microsoft Word, HTML Emails, WordPress, and HTML Scripting. Strong business development professional with a Bachelor's degree focused on Transport Management technology from The Federal University of Technology, Akure.

As a transportation management I can supervise many aspects of transportation systems, including planning, logistics, maintenance and repair. I focus on getting materials, people and goods from one place to another while considering safety, efficiency and cost. I can also expect to manage financial aspects of transportation systems, including budgets and expenditures.

I have specialized knowledge about topics such as traffic operations, planning methods, system operation, marketing, accounting and statistics.
